New RACGP Telehealth video consultations guide

The RACGP's Telehealth video consultations guide has effectively consolidated current resources into a single point of reference.

The guide is designed to support general practices in making use of Medicare Benefits Schedule (MBS)-supported telehealth video consultations, and provide safe facilitation and coordination of these consultations. It outlines the clinical, administrative and technical considerations when introducing this mode of healthcare delivery, and focuses on telehealth video consultations covered under the MBS.

There are currently 23 MBS items available for practitioners – including GPs, nurse practitioners and Aboriginal health workers – who provide patient-end clinical support during video consultations with a specialist, consultant physician or consultant psychiatrist.

MBS rebates are available for patients who:

- are located outside of Australian Standard Geographical Classification – Remoteness Area (RA) 1 classification (major cities)
- access care from an eligible Aboriginal medical or health service
- live in an eligible residential aged care facility
- are located more than 15 km from the specialist who is providing the treatment.

MBS items are also available for GPs providing Focussed Psychological Strategies (FPS) services in rural areas, and temporary item numbers available to provide general mental health support services by video consultations to patients in drought-affected and flood-affected areas.

For more information about the development of the guide, please visit <https://bit.ly/2wsCmTj> and you can download the guide itself by visiting <https://bit.ly/30SbH0d>.

1800 2 ASSIST (1800 2 277 478) | support@practiceassist.com.au | www.practiceassist.com.au

WA Primary Health Alliance is supported by funding from the Australian Government under the PHN Program.

Rural Health West is funded by the Australian Government Department of Health and the WA Country Health Service.

Emergency Response Planning Tool subsidised licences

The WA Primary Health Alliance is providing fully subsidised access to the Royal Australian College of General Practitioners (RACGP) online emergency response planning tool (ERPT) for practices across Western Australia.

The ERPT takes an 'all-risks' approach to managing and planning for emergencies including pandemic and cyber security response. It also considers all the risks that can threaten the general practice sector in particular the heightened exposure to extreme weather events, through-out Australia.

It is hosted, supported and maintained by Healthpoint ANZ and was developed in collaboration with the RACGP. Please visit <https://bit.ly/2WrLpUI> for a fact sheet and how to access the limited number of fully subsidised licenses.

Cyber Security Module update

In late 2018, the RACGP developed a new guideline for general practice on the importance of 'Information security in general practice' (please access by visiting <https://bit.ly/2Wcc2Y7>)

The reasons the RACGP developed the guideline are:

- Information security is critical to the provision of safe, high-quality healthcare and the efficient running of a general practice. It is a fixed cost of doing business, and requires adequate allocation of financial and human resources to ensure business continuity and the protection of information assets.
- Information security involves prevention of inappropriate access, protection of personal information and preservation of practice data.
- Patient or practice team data that is lost, stolen, inappropriately used or accessed can result in identity theft or privacy breaches that could ultimately place your practice at risk of incurring substantial fines or penalties.
- Patient or practice team data that is lost, stolen, inappropriately used or accessed can result in identity theft or privacy breaches that could ultimately place your practice at risk of incurring substantial fines or penalties.

With the guideline development, the RACGP agreed the best place to include the content was into the ERPT. In March 2019 the first cyber security module was included in the ERPT. This is called the 'Cyber incident response' and guides practices through very practical steps in dealing with cyber intrusions or employee mistakes etc. A second module will be added later this year and will guide practices through the process of identifying and building their cyber security policies.

Heart Health Check MBS item

From April 1 two new interim items 699 and 177 are available on the Medicare Benefits Schedule (MBS) to allow general practitioners (GPs) and other medical practitioners to conduct a Heart Health Check that lasts at least 20 minutes.

A Heart Health Check is the patient-friendly term for comprehensive absolute cardiovascular disease (CVD) risk assessment and ongoing management. It principally involves gathering information about a patient's CVD risk factors, calculating and recording their absolute CVD risk using a validated calculator, and managing risk as per guidelines on an ongoing basis.

All adults not already known to have CVD, who are aged 45 years and above (or 30 years and above for Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples) are eligible for item 699, and the items can be claimed once per patient in a 12-month period.

For more information, and a suggested pathway to implement the Heart Health Check MBS item in general practice, please visit <https://bit.ly/2wv3UaI>.

CrazySocks4Docs – show your support for doctors’ mental health

The first Friday in June (June 7 this year) is CrazySocks4Docs day, all about raising awareness of the mental health of all doctors and health practitioners around the world.

CrazySocks4Docs day was established by Dr Geoff Toogood, a doctor with lived experience of both depression and anxiety. Facing stigma and discrimination at many levels, he was determined that, once recovered, he would create an awareness movement to break down the stigma felt by health professionals.

The day came out of the response that Dr Toogood experienced when he wore odd-coloured socks to work. People assumed his mental health was failing, when in fact he was well, and all his other socks had been eaten by his new puppy. Rather than ask him if he was OK, people spoke about him behind his back. He started CrazySocks4Docs day as an attempt to address mental health stigma such as this, and to make it OK for a doctor not to be OK.

On Friday, June 7, wear your crazy socks, take a photo, and post to Twitter, Facebook or Instagram, using #crazysocks4docs to show your support and start the conversation. You can also follow Dr Toogood on Twitter @crazysocks4docs and find out more by visiting

Latest Incentives News Update now available

The Department of Human Services Incentives News Update (INU) keeps you up to date with the Practice, and Practice Nurse, Incentives Programs.

The May edition is now available, with important information about the new PIP Quality Improvement Incentive. You can access the INU by visiting <https://bit.ly/2Z9okme>, and subscribe to future updates at the bottom of this page <https://bit.ly/2HRRNJ8>.

Reminder - collection of information in preparation for PIP QI

In preparation for the introduction of the Practice Incentives Program Quality Improvement (PIP QI) payment on 1 August 2019, WA Primary Health Alliance is collecting some preliminary information from practices that may be interested in participating in the new incentive.

We have an enquiry form available that will collect your practice name, as well as the name and telephone number of the staff member completing the form. In addition, if you are already participating in the Practice Incentives Program, we are collecting your PIP ID and the name by which your practice is known to the Department of Human Services (your PIP ID and practice name will appear on communications relating to PIP). The practice name should match the name that appears on your certificate of accreditation.

The form can be completed by visiting <https://bit.ly/2VHdiY7>. Please contact Practice Assist, or your Primary Health Liaison directly, if you have any queries.

Accreditation tip – relocation and change of ownership

Following several recent enquiries, in this edition we look at what an accredited practice needs to do if it relocates or changes ownership. During periods of change within a general practice, the status or continuation of accreditation may not be a primary concern, however for those practices that are accredited, and particularly those that participate in the Practice Incentives Program (PIP), ensuring that your practice information is kept up-to-date is vital in maintaining your accreditation and PIP eligibility.

For all changes in practice details, including relocation, amalgamation, and change of ownership, the practice must either update the details through Health Professional Online Service (HPOS) or by using the forms provided on the Department of Human Services (DHS) website. If you are using the manual form option, you must complete the IP005 Change of practice details form for relocation or amalgamation, and the IP010 Change of practice ownership for a change of ownership.

The agency that your practice is accredited by will have its own processes for managing the relocation of a practice. This may include a relocation visit, or self-assessment and declaration of new practice information. Regardless of the process that must be undertaken, all PIP-participating practices have six months from the date of relocation to submit a new accreditation certificate, with the new site details, to DHS. If your practice is relocating, it is vital the necessary steps are completed within this timeframe, as PIP payments will be put on hold until the new accreditation certificate is supplied, and eligibility can be put at risk if the timeframe is not met.

Advising your accreditation agency of the relocation ideally as soon as you have confirmed dates, or as soon as you have moved, allows the agency to proceed with its relocation process. The agencies will always do their best to ensure the six-month time limit is met, but their ability to do this is reduced if there is a delay in them knowing about a practice's relocation. Another common issue is that a practice will apply for new provider numbers without realising that notifying the PIP Branch is an entirely separate process. Please ensure that, if your practice is intending to move (or has moved) premises, you either update your information via HPOS or use the IP005 form, and notify your accreditation agency as soon as possible.

If your practice is changing ownership, again, you will need to update your information with DHS via HPOS, or use the IP010 form to update the details manually, and also let your accreditation agency know. You will be asked to provide evidence, both to DHS and to your accreditation agency, of the change of ownership (such as a bill of sale or other legal document), and if you are using the IP010 form, a section must be completed by the previous owner of the practice. This raises an important point: it is easier to facilitate a change of ownership process with the participation of the vendor. Often, the new owner will contact the accreditation agency, for example, to notify a change of ownership, but in maintaining the confidentiality of the practice information, the agency may not be able to discuss practice matters with the new owner if that person is not linked to any information on the agency's existing database record for that practice. This can lead to unnecessary complexity in verifying the change of ownership. If your practice is changing owners, it is better for the existing owner or staff to notify the accreditation agency and provide written confirmation of any new contact people to simplify the transition while preserving the confidentiality of practice information.

As the PIP Quality Improvement payment is due to be introduced shortly, and it is a busy year in general practice accreditation, it is important that accredited practices are proactive in ensuring that they follow all necessary processes to maintain their accreditation and PIP eligibility. If you have any queries regarding your own practice's circumstances, please contact your accreditation agency or the PIP branch, and for WA practices that need assistance in completing these processes, your Primary Health Liaison will be able to help.

Posters available to promote HIV and hepatitis C video resources

The Sexual Health Blood-borne Virus Program (SHBBVP) recently collaborated with HepatitisWA to produce and release two education videos, aiming to educate and inform people recently diagnosed with, or at risk of, HIV or hepatitis C.

Primarily targeting Aboriginal people affected by HIV or hepatitis C, the videos are relevant for patients / clients, as well as health professionals, to help detail the next steps in accessing treatment / care as required.

The SHBBVP has now released a poster for each video, with access to the videos available via mobile phone / tablet QR reader (by opening the device's camera and detecting the video using the QR reader function). Hard copies are available for free for metro and regional health services in Western Australia via the WA Department of Health Online Publication Ordering System website <http://dohquickmail.com.au/>.

WA Mental Health Awards 2019

The Western Australian Mental Health Awards 2019 will celebrate individuals and organisations that made an outstanding contribution to mental health in the calendar year of 2018.

The awards aim to recognise and reward the achievements of those who demonstrate excellence, innovation, and initiative in supporting consumers of mental health services, their families, and carers; and showcase best practice in WA's mental health sector to inspire others.

The Awards are hosted by the Western Australian Association for Mental Health, with the support of the WA Mental Health Commission.

Nominations opened on Tuesday, 4 June, and will close on Friday, 5 July, with finalists announced during Mental Health Week, 6 to 12 October, and the awards evening on 18 November. For more information please visit <https://waamh.org.au/awards/>.

My Health Record update

Training and information for nurses: new e-learning CPD accredited course

The Australian Digital Health Agency's (ADHA) new My Health Record in Nursing e-learning course is now available. This self-paced course has been developed in collaboration with the Australian College of Nursing (ACN) and is eligible for CPD points. It supports nurses working in any healthcare setting to become familiar with and confident in using the My Health Record system, and outlines its benefits, features, and functionalities.

The course contains five modules:

- Module 1: An introduction to My Health Record
- Module 2: Clinical documents and patient-entered information
- Module 3: Accessing, viewing and uploading to My Health Record
- Module 4: My Health Record privacy, security and consent
- Module 5: Supporting patients' use of My Health Record

Each module has been endorsed by the CAN for CPD points and can be accessed via the My Health Record website: <https://training.digitalhealth.gov.au>

For more information on the nursing role in digitally enabled healthcare, please visit <https://bit.ly/2EIMonZ>.

New nursing My Health Record fact sheets

The following new ADHA fact sheets have been released for nurses, explaining the benefits of My Health Record in assisting them to provide care to their patients.

- Overview of My Health Record for nurses: <https://bit.ly/2JKcDyB>
- Overview of My Health Record for community nurses: <https://bit.ly/2W53Gsk>

A wide range of fact sheets and guides for healthcare professionals are available from the ADHA My Health Record website, which you can access by visiting <https://bit.ly/2wrTOaL>.

Webinar: My Health Record for Practice Nurses – improving continuity of care

This webinar will provide practice nurses with an insight into the My Health Record system and how it can be used in their clinical practice. It will include specific examples of when My Health Record may be used to support practice nurses' clinical decisions and workflows, such as when giving vaccinations or undertaking health checks.

Also covered will be the consent framework, roles and responsibilities, when to view, and when to contribute to My Health Record. There will also be the opportunity for participants to have their My Health Record questions answered.

2019 Australian Rural and Remote Mental Health Symposium

Australians living and working in rural and remote areas are only able to access mental health services at a fifth of the rate of those in urban areas. This inequality poses serious risks for a large population of Australians, resulting in increased suffering of those seeking help, support and treatment for mental health issues.

This symposium, being held in Adelaide from 28 to 30 October, will connect professionals working to advance the services and support mental health receives in rural and remote areas, from renowned keynote speakers and industry workers through to government, academics, researchers and individual service providers.

Abstract submissions are now open, and you are invited to share your research, projects or experience with an audience passionate about making a difference to rural and remote mental health. The symposium currently has availabilities for oral presenters, poster presenters, 90-minute panel presenters, and workshop presenters. For more information on submitting an abstract and presenting, please visit <https://anzmh.asn.au/rrmh/present/>.

For information on costs, early bird registrations, and to register, please visit <https://anzmh.asn.au/rrmh/registration/>

Rheumatic Heart Disease: a case study

A public lecture by Dr Mark Engel, Associate Professor within the Medicine Department at University of Cape Town, and 2019 UWA Institute of Advanced Studies Visiting Fellow

The ASAP Programme (ASAP Stands for raise Awareness, establish Surveillance systems, Advocate for increased resources for treatment, and to promote Prevention strategies.” was launched as a comprehensive approach to tackling RHD on the African continent. Employing a multi-pronged approach, the programme emphasizes the importance of awareness-raising, surveillance, advocacy and prevention programmes being incorporated in research endeavours. Having been instrumental in the programme from its inception in South Africa, Dr Engel will report on the programme’s progress from population screening to genome-wide association studies involving 6000 participants from seven countries in Africa. The lessons learnt serve as an illuminating guide for initiating studies responsive to the health needs and the priorities of the population or community in which it is to be carried out, especially in a resource-constrained environment.

Dr Engel’s research includes all aspects of rheumatic heart disease (RHD), employing a wide range of investigative approaches, from molecular to population-based research in efforts to improve the understanding of this poverty-related heart disease.

Introduction to DBT Skills for Adolescents in General Practice – 15 June

DBT is a psychotherapeutic treatment for people who experience difficulty managing their emotions and resulting behaviours such as:

- Experiencing emotions that are highly reactive, intense, and slow to recover
- Problem behaviours such as self-injury, suicidal behaviour, substance misuse, school avoidance, disturbed eating and risky sexual behaviour
- Interpersonal difficulties which can result in frequent intense conflict with family and peers
- Feelings of emptiness and identity confusion

This education session will focus on two essential components of DBT, Mindfulness and Validation, and discuss the benefits of collaboration assessment, management of risk, and the establishment of safety plans that are respectful, empathetic, empowering and skills focused.

By the end of this education session, GPs will be able to:

- Develop a risk management plan with young people, enabling the GP and young person to easily transfer key risk management strategies and information across the family & health care system.
- Utilise mindfulness skills as taught within the Dialectical Behaviour Therapy model.
- Identify the ways in which a young person may invalidate themselves and others, and acquire a clear conceptualisation of the skill of validation.

June is Bowel Cancer Awareness month

June is Bowel Cancer Awareness Month, a Bowel Cancer Australia initiative to raise awareness of Australia's second deadliest cancer and raise funds for the leading community-funded charity dedicated to prevention, early diagnosis, research, quality treatment and the best care for everyone affected by bowel cancer.

Bowel cancer claims the lives of 103 Australians every week (5,375 people a year) - but it's one of the most treatable types of cancer if found early.

While the risk of bowel cancer increases significantly with age, the disease doesn't discriminate, affecting men and women, young and old.

1 in 13 Australians will be diagnosed with bowel cancer in their lifetime. 15,604 Australians will be diagnosed with the disease this year.

Support Bowel Cancer Awareness Month by registering an event (<https://bit.ly/2EmUgLP>), and for more information, please visit the campaign website (<https://bit.ly/2YI8TRM>).

19 June is Red Apple Day

A highlight of Bowel Cancer Awareness Month is Red Apple Day (Wednesday, 19 June 2019), when Australians are encouraged to support the vital work of Bowel Cancer Australia through the purchase of a Bowel Cancer Awareness Ribbon and apple-themed fundraising activities.

Bowel Cancer Australia's apple logo is symbolic of the charity's bowel cancer message: bowel cancer is treatable and beatable if detected early.

The outline of Bowel Cancer Australia's apple logo appears as an abstract of a human bowel. The small hole in the apple is caused by a worm. If detected early and removed, the worm is unable to continue affecting the apple or the health of the tree.

It's the same with people. If bowel cancer is detected early it can be successfully treated, which means patients and their families can continue to enjoy a healthy life.

Both red and green apples are also a nutritious source of dietary fibre.

Red Apple Pins and Bowel Cancer Awareness Ribbons (as well as other merchandise) can be purchased from the Bowel Cancer Australia online store at <https://bit.ly/2LVVeF8>.

10 – 16 June is Infant Mental Health Awareness Week Australia

Infant Mental Health Awareness Week was first launched in Australia in June 2017 by the Australian Association for Infant Mental Health Incorporated. It was timed to align with the Infant Mental Health Awareness Week to be held in the UK in the same week, 12-16 June 2017.

The inaugural Infant Mental Health Awareness Week in the UK was in 2016 when the charity Parent Infant Partnership (PIP) UK set out to raise a greater understanding for policy makers, professionals and parents about why giving every baby the best possible start in life matters to the life chances of children and families. At the 2016 UK launch, Clair Rees (PIP) emphasised that “Good mental health begins in early childhood. When a baby has the opportunity to form a secure bond with their parent or caregiver, this can support their potential and ability to form healthy relationships throughout life”. Research evidence now confirms a direct link between difficulties in infant parent-child bonding or attachment and psychiatric disorders in later life.

To promote Infant Mental Health Awareness week, you can download free resources by visiting <https://bit.ly/2Mh0RxA> or visit <https://bit.ly/2KdF4o7> for ideas on activities you can run in your workplace or with other parents.
