

Free Interpreting Service for Medical Practitioners

The Free Interpreting Service aims to provide equitable access to key services for Australian citizens and permanent residents with limited English language proficiency.

Medical practitioners can access the Free Interpreting Service to provide Medicare rebateable services to anyone with a Medicare card.

Why medical practitioners use interpreters

Australia has a rich cultural diversity. The 2016 census revealed that Australians were born in almost 200 different countries and speak more than 300 languages.

Medical practitioners use credentialed interpreters to communicate complex or technical information to patients with limited or no English proficiency. This can help to ensure accuracy of communication, reduce confusion, save time, and protect practitioners from professional risk. It is particularly important when:

- seeking informed consent
- in a crisis
- dealing with complexity
- assessing patient competence.

Services available to medical practitioners

Medical practitioners can use the Free Interpreting Service to access interpreting services delivered by TIS National, including:

- immediate phone interpreting
- pre-booked phone interpreting
- pre-booked onsite interpreting.

Immediate phone interpreting is most useful for unplanned interactions. It provides:

- access to over 3000 interpreters in 165 different languages
- interpreting services 24 hours a day 7 days a week
- connection to an interpreter within a few minutes of calling.

Pre-booked phone interpreting is useful for planned medical appointments, or if you need to request a less common language.

When phone interpreting is not suitable, TIS National can arrange an interpreter to arrive onsite for a face-to-face appointment. This may be important when the consultation is particularly complicated, for example, where a doctor needs to give complex or technical instructions or rely heavily on non-verbal cues.

You may also wish to use onsite interpreting if you have several patients who need the same language interpreter and are able to schedule these so that one interpreter can attend for several appointments.

Eligibility

Under the Free Interpreting Service, medical practitioners are defined as general practitioners and approved medical specialists.

Medical practitioners are eligible to access the Free Interpreting Service when delivering services that are:

- Medicare rebateable
- delivered in private practice
- provided to anyone with a Medicare card.

Nursing and practice support staff working with a medical practitioner registered with TIS National can also access the service using the same client code.

The Free Interpreting Service can be used for delivering health services, including but not limited to:

- arranging appointment times
- undertaking health consultations
- developing health plans
- providing medical test results.

The Free Interpreting Service cannot be used for:

- allied health services
- patients who do not hold a Medicare card
- state funded public health services, such as service provided in hospitals.
