

RACEPC Communicate

Residential Aged Care: Excellence in Palliative Care Communicate

General Practitioner and Nurse Practitioner Series

 4x one hour virtual webinars

 1x three hour online experiential course

RACEPC Communicate values for the role of all staff working in residential aged care and provides a broad range of free, relevant opportunities for quality improvement including ongoing online education and biannual face-to-face symposiums.

This series focuses on providing education for general practitioners and nurse practitioners who work directly with residents living in an aged care facility, delivered by specialist consultants, content experts and actors.

The aim is to provide tools and strategies for health professionals who engage in advance care planning, palliative and end of life care, and residential goal of care conversations. It covers key topics relevant to providing a palliative approach to their patients and families with a life-limiting illness, through the prevention of suffering by the means of early identification, impeccable assessment and treatment of pain, and physical, psychosocial, and spiritual care.

1. Recognising Deterioration in Residents of Aged Care Facilities
2. Your Essentials for Pre-Emptive Prescribing and Deprescribing in Residential Aged Care
3. Your Tools and Strategies for Navigating Complex Family Dynamics in Residential Aged Care
4. The Role of GPs & NPs in Advance Care Planning
5. Working Together with Families and Residents for 'Goals of Patient Care' (RGoC) Conversations (three hours)

The three hour communication course offers health professionals the opportunity to engage in live simulation-based education, and work with health experts throughout the state. This online experiential workshop with actors allows GPs and NPs to develop tools and strategies to utilise with their patients and residents through the evolution of their care planning and goals.
