

Curtin University

Researchers at Curtin University are evaluating the impact of the No Job No Play legislation in Western Australia. This project is funded by the Department of Health.

Who can participate?

- Primary school principals/deputy principals/enrolment officers
- Early childcare educators/managers/coordinators managing enrolments
- Healthcare providers and/or nurse immunisers providing information and vaccinations to children

Why is the study important?

- To understand the attitudes towards childhood vaccination
- To inform how the legislation has impacted enrolments in childcare centres and primary schools and healthcare providers in Western Australia.

How can you help?

Complete a 10 minute survey by:

- Using the link <https://bit.ly/NJNPHCPEDU>
- OR
- scanning the QR code

Ethics approval has been gained from Curtin University (HRE2022-0084) and the Department of Health Western Australia (RGS0000005134). For more information about the study, contact Dr Ranila Bhoyroo (ranila.bhoyroo@curtin.edu.au)

Participants can enter a prize draw to win one of 6 x $100 gift voucher after completing the survey!